INTRODUCTION

Nigeria's endemic corruption has become the country's greatest challenge to the sustainability of our economic growth, Development and democratic governance.

To the extent it has affected the productivity and entrepreneurship spirit and drive of our younger generation in their desperate measures to accept crime and corruption as a way of life, despite all the government's anti-graft efforts.

New methods of corruption have been introduced in our system instead of modern techniques of productivity. This raises questions about the Nigerian institutions and their ability to tackle corruption.

Building a Nation free from corruption can be made possible, by Integrating an Integrity compliance mindset in branding and in every facets of our life as citizens, through reinforcements of sustainable value reorientation, attitudinal Change, integrity advocacy, enhancing partnerships, and dialogue between the public and private sectors to promote business integrity. This is essential for sustainable long-term business growth, creating excellent opportunities, and increased gross domestic product (GDP), which aims to help in diminishing the vicious cycle of corruption in Nigeria, that has exacerbated poverty, obstructed sustainable development, productivity and economic prosperity of the people and the Nation at large.

It was from this perspective that the Committed Advocates of Integrity Initiative, CADII is organizing and hosting the National Integrity Summit (NIS).
